"War is peace, freedom is slavery, ignorance is strength." George Orwell in "1984".

Dystopia precisely, something that is the opposite of utopia, a place where everything is undesirable where humanity has progressed to an apocalyptic situation that delete the freedom and the individual. In this undesirable and frightening society where everything is based on the malfeasance, the iron men resist close one to another, while the rust corrodes them in a while. My people are on the way towards utopia!"
